Online courses provide another option that is ideal for students who wish to work remotely, at their own pace, without set meeting times. The flexible online format may be a great option for parents who are assisting young students with online learning, university students who do not feel comfortable returning to campus but want to earn transferable course credit, or individuals balancing work, school and other commitments.

Virtual courses mirror face-to-face instruction by connecting students with instructors online, in real-time, providing the closest experience to actually being on campus. Students who enroll in virtual courses can expect to have interaction with instructors and students, collaboration with other students in a virtual space, real-time group discussion and an enhanced sense of community with classmates and instructors.
